What your digital colleagues have been doing

A look back at June. The agent workforce now spans thirteen mailboxes across four brands — the sales assistant went live for Smeba, Fire Control and Berki, and info@ mail is now routed to the right team automatically. It reads, sorts and matches every email and prepares the next step, still changing nothing in shadow and dry-run until each mailbox is signed off.

Where we are today

● LIVE

Acts on its own in your inbox — sorting, labelling and routing. (You still send the replies.)

● DRY-RUN

Labels mail in Outlook with the detected intent, but takes no automatic action on it yet.

● SHADOW

Runs behind the scenes — you only see it in the Bulk Review tool. Nothing changes in Outlook.

Every email goes through five steps

One shared process for every brand and team — each step handled by its own digital colleague.

It learns from how you work

It watches how you correct it, and improves with every edit.

1. Change or remove a label → it learns the label was wrong.
2. Drag an email elsewhere → it learns where it belongs.
3. Edit or reject a draft → it sharpens the next suggestion.

What's new

- ✓ Sales assistant live on 4 mailboxes
- ✓ info@ mail auto-routed
- ✓ Sharper customer matching
- ✓ Less spam & cold sales

What's next

IN DEVELOPMENT

→ What each mailbox may do

→ Quote → order, automatically

→ Learning from your replies

Roadmap is a proposal based on the planning — adjust to what you want to communicate.

Questions or feedback?

Everything runs in shadow mode unless stated otherwise — no changes without your sign-off.
