What your digital colleagues have been doing

Now live in Outlook across ten mailboxes and four brands. The workforce reads, sorts and matches every email, then prepares the next step. One mailbox already acts on its own; the rest stay in shadow mode — proposing, never changing anything until you sign off.

Where we are today

● LIVE

Acts on its own in your inbox — sorting, labelling and routing. (You still send the replies.)

● DRY-RUN

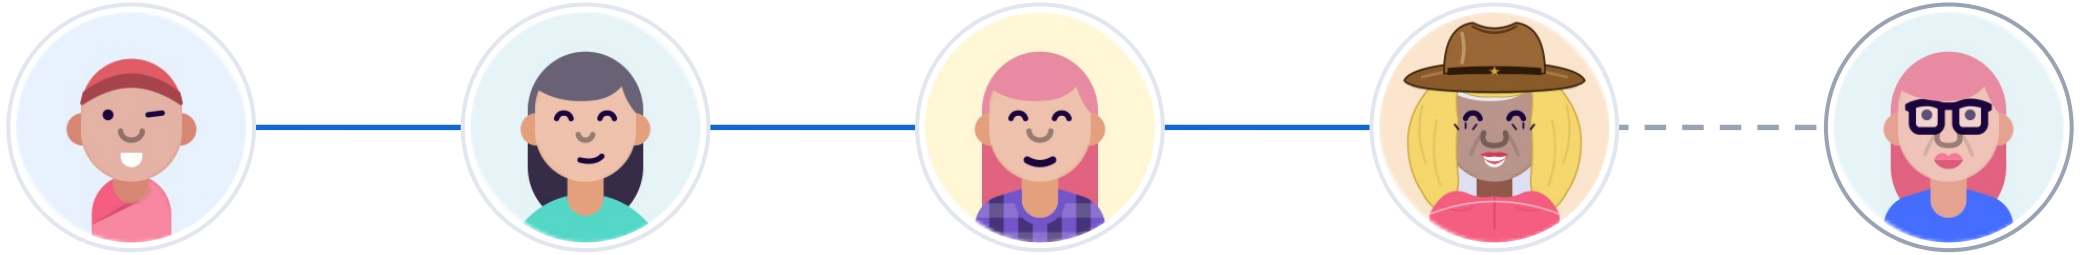

Labels mail in Outlook with the detected intent, but takes no automatic action on it yet.

● SHADOW

Runs behind the scenes — you only see it in the Bulk Review tool. Nothing changes in Outlook.

Every email goes through five steps

One shared process for every brand and team — each step handled by its own digital colleague.

It learns from how you work

It watches how you correct it, and improves with every edit.

1. Change or remove a label → it learns the label was wrong.
2. Drag an email elsewhere → it learns where it belongs.
3. Edit or reject a draft → it sharpens the next suggestion.

What's new

- ✓ Sales mailbox acts on its own
- ✓ Smart labels in Outlook
- ✓ It learns from your corrections
- ✓ Customer recognised automatically

What's next

IN DEVELOPMENT

→ Mail routed to the right team

→ Rules in plain language

→ More customers recognised

Roadmap is a proposal based on the planning — adjust to what you want to communicate.

Questions or feedback?

Everything runs in shadow mode unless stated otherwise — no changes without your sign-off.
